Y2K Preparedness at KOK Edit

Once January 1, 2000 arrives and many computers think it's 1900, will your bank's ATM card still work? Will your mortgage holder's computer say you don't own your house because the house didn't exist in 1900? Will your grocery store run out of food because its computers say its vendors weren't around in 1900? Will KOK Edit still be there for you?

KOK Edit can't soothe all your Y2K worries, but it has taken steps to make sure it can continue to meet your manuscript needs:

- ♣ A Y2K-ready computer, printer, and scanner are in use now.
- ♣ Extra supplies of colored pencils, erasable-ink pens, query slips, Post-it notes, and paper have been secured.
- ♣ Plenty of reference books are still on hand.
- ♣ The fervent dedication to proper grammar, good syntax, and fact checking that you've come to depend on is still in place.
- ♣ Curiosity about the subject matter of your next manuscript is stronger than ever.

KOK Edit works for you 5 days a week, 8 hours a day, but not 9 to 5. A typical workday starts at 8:30 A.M. and runs until 7 P.M., with a break at 9 A.M. for a 2.8-mile walk at 13 minutes a mile.

A Big Thank-You

As always at this time of year, I thank you for the assignments you've sent my way and for the pleasure of working with you.
